ATX 1250W

Morpheo Full Modular sources are available in 650W and 1250W for any gamer to find the option their computer needs.

All of them are 80 Plus Gold certified. And that certification is the one that guarantees a 90% of efficiency so that during the long gaming sessions, power stays stable, without peaks that could make to fail the equipment in the worst moment.

Thanks to this, the heat emissions will be lower without this reducing the operation. What will be reduced will be the speed of the fans and consequently, the level of noise produced by the PSU.

In addition, these are Full Modular PSUs, which allow selecting the number of cables according to the specific needs of each computer. This reduces unnecessary cables inside the case.

Morpheo PSUs also incorporate Japanese capacitors, allowing you to achieve the smallest difference between the energy they receive and the energy they give in the charge-discharge process. This results in less resistance to the current flow and therefore less heating for the CPU.

Not only technology matters, but the elegant Morpheo´s design will give you the personal touch that every gamer is looking for.

And with a 5-year guarantee, the only concern will be to play; the rest will be handled by ABYSM.
